George Otts Draper Nakes Appearance in Bankruptcy Proceedings.

ISpecial to The Times-Dispatch.]

New York, December .30.—George Otts Draper, son of the late General William F. Draper, former United States ambassador to Italy, and nephew of a former Governor of Massachusetts, was a petitioner in bankruptcy in the Federal court to-day, Frederick C. McLaughlin being appointed receiver by Judge Holt upon the application of Lesser Brothers, attorneys, who represented various creditors.

The action against Draper followed a series of judgments which have been entered against him. In their application, the creditors allege that Draper is insolvent, has made preferential payments and has transferred shares of stocks in various companies to the Garfield National Bank as security for debt of $2,500. It is also alleged that he transferred stock in the Mexican Metals Company and other shares to John J. Parrott, Jr., as security for a debt, and has permitted an attachment against property owned by him in Massachusetts.

Lesser Brothers place his liabilities at about $300,000. The value of his assets is unknown. Upon the death of his father on January 1, 1910. Dra-
